Dear Kevin:

Your closing keynote was a perfect ending to our conference this month. It was the first time I've ever seen a speaker receive two standing ovations! Our client who sponsored your speech and provided your books for the attendees was thrilled.

Thank you for the time you spent before the event learning about our company and our clients. I believe that's what made the speech relevant and really hit home with everyone.

Thank you also for taking the time to mingle with our group after your speech. We were glad our clients had the opportunity to talk to you directly over dinner. I have a few audience members who are interested in your contact information for other events and I will forward their information to your office.

Thank you, again, for the wonderful speech and please feel free to use me as a reference in the future.

Sincerely,

Tricia Collom
VP Marketing
