Dear Kevin:

I still feel like I'm sitting in the cockpit of your aircraft helping you land it. Your presentation was truly one that brought the audience into the situation you were describing. Your message of turning pressure into calm confidence is one that fits so many people's life experiences whether in business or personal.

I would encourage any organization considering having you as a guest speaker, to not delay in securing the date with you. I hope they would feel comfortable in contacting me regarding the opportunity to hear your presentation. Best of luck.

Sincerely,

Ed Brady
President
